STUDENT LIFE

Creation of an encompassing, prospering atmosphere for a diversity of students has been a tradition at Salve Regina College which continues. The College offers dedicated individuals the opportunity to achieve not only in their selected field, but also as cultured persons.

As Seniors, we witnessed great change. Constant technological advancements enhanced our ability to collect scholastic information both in the computer lab and in the library. New dorms provided us with the finest living accommodations. The renovated dorm Wakehurst became the Campus Center which included the Global Cafe in 1987. Better organized college activities and creation of the student oriented Campus Center provided us with dances, ski trips, bowling brigades, wacky races and weekly movies. Expanding sports events, the first Rhode Island Women's Tennis Tournament, and the reassemblage of the Sailing Club in 1984, along with the utilization of Wetmore Field in 1985 inspired students to enthusiastically gather on sidelines.

We developed courage at the annual Women's Connection Conferences beginning in 1986 and compassion at the Tom Chapin concert for world hunger. Our desire to artistically express ourselves was intensified by the renovation of The Little Theater in 1985; now The Megley Theater. Musically, the College expanded as the ground floor of a part of Carey Mansion became Cecelia Hall in 1984. We observed the christening of the Salve sigillum and the downfall of the College's old symbol, the seagull.

In the history of the College, one crucial tradition has not been altered, the ability of the College to intimately relate to matriculating students. The consistent guidance of devoted ministry, staff and faculty in times of sorrow, celebration, and need never failed to recognize us as individuals. We were more than mere numbers at Salve Regina. Consequently, by the year 1988, we developed into what may lead to cultured perfection.

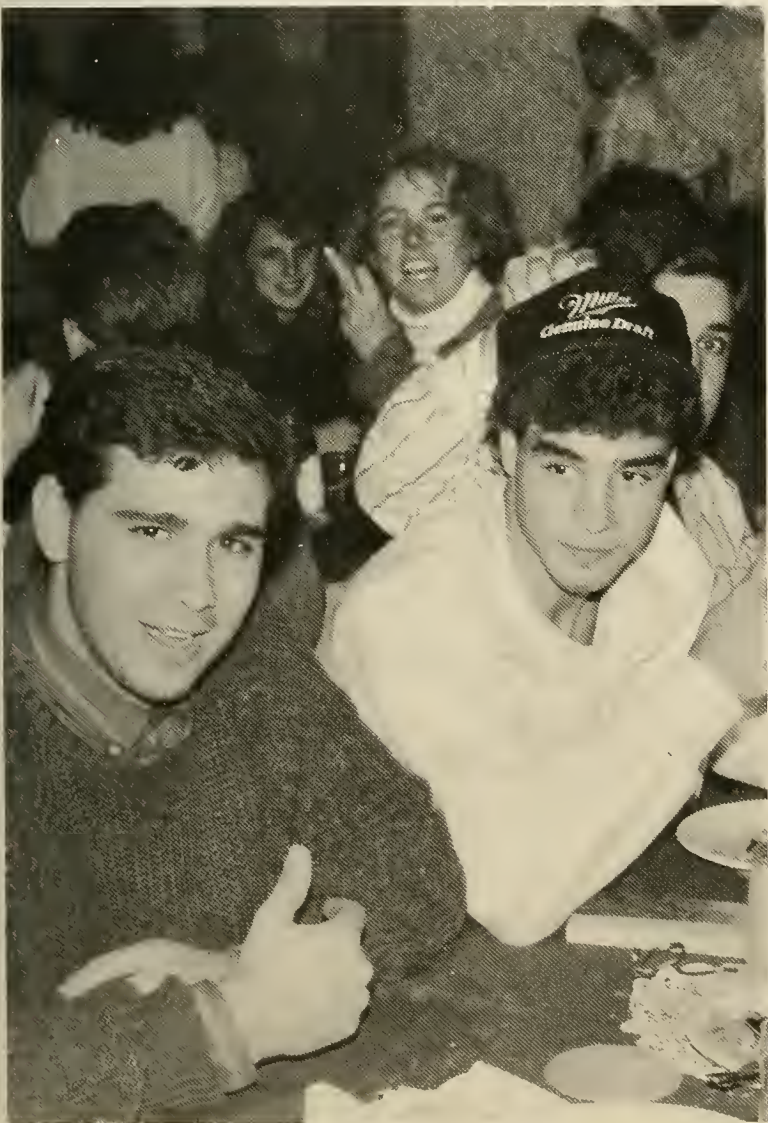

There are so many of us, and each of us with different talents . . .

Together on the campus we have developed our talents, and while doing so have learned new things about ourselves.

Aah . . . such fond memories . . . Ochre Court, Miley Hall, Mercy Hall, and the Pell Building.

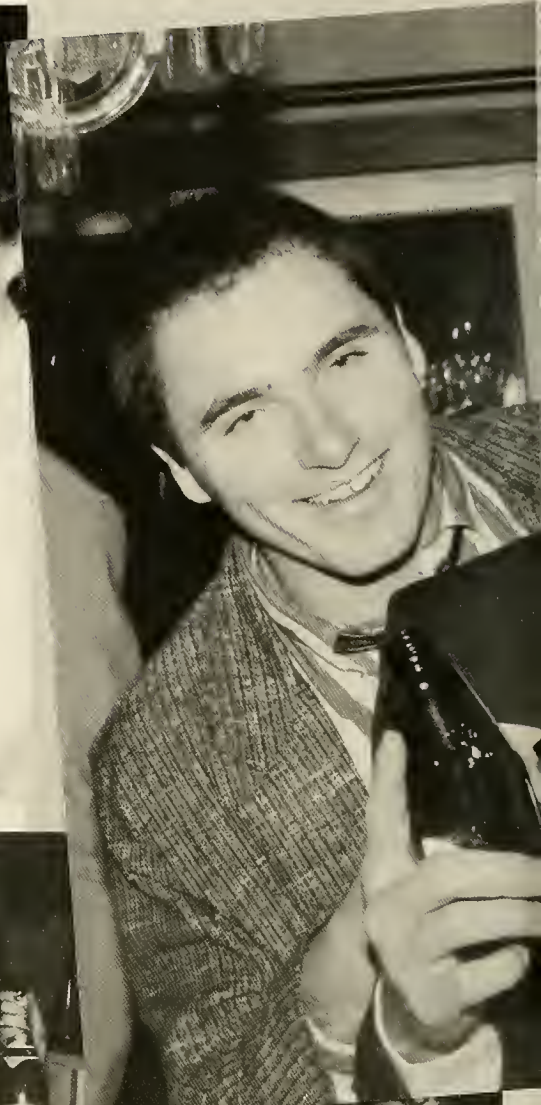

Around Campus

Forever will we remember the hallowed halls of O'Hare Academic Center, not to mention Wakehurst Campus Center, McAuley Hall, and Carey Mansion.

Life is partly what we make it, and partly what it is made by the friends whom we choose.

Boat Cruise

September 22, 1987. Seniors had reason to celebrate on this evening. The Boat Cruise marked the beginning of the "official" count-down to graduation. Only 123 academic days remained!

A shoulder to cry on,
An ear to bend,
Money to borrow,
Clothes to lend;
Friday night clubbing,
Afternoon walks,
Being together,
Our private talks;
Mending our hearts,
Crying those tears,
Planning our futures,
Voicing our fears;
Our memories together,
May they never end,
Always together,
Forever friends!

I count myself in nothing else so happy
As in a soul remembering my good Friends.

— Shakespeare

Friendship is the shadow of the evening, which strengthens with the setting sun of life.

— La Fontaine

The bond of friendship is the deepest bond.

— Aristotle

By friendship you mean the greatest love, the greatest usefulness, the most open communication, the noblest suffering, the severest truth, the heartiest counsel, and the greatest union of minds of which brave men and women are capable.

— Jeremy Taylor

To A Friend

You entered my life in a casual way
And saw at a glance what I needed;
There were others who passed me or met me each day,
But never a one of them heeded.
Perhaps you were thinking of other folks more,
Or chance simply seemed to decree it;
I know there were many such chances before,
But the others — well, they didn't see it.

You said just the thing that I wished you would,
And you made me believe that you meant it;
I held up my head in the old gallant way,
And resolved you should never repent it.
There are times when encouragement means such a lot
And a word is enough to convey it;
There were others who could have, as easy as not —
But, just the same, they didn't say it.

There may have been some who could have done more
To help me along, though I doubt it;
What I needed was cheering, and always before
They had let me plod onward without it.
You helped to refashion the dreams of my heart,
And made me turn eagerly to it;
There were others who might have —
But, after all, they didn't do it!

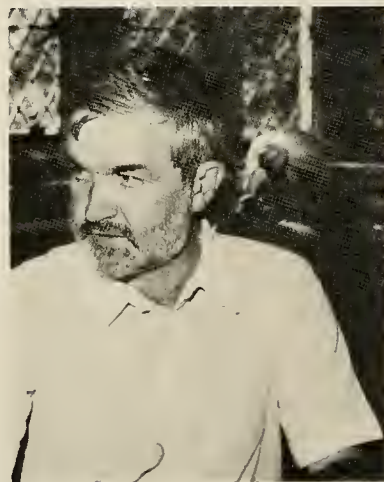

— Grace Stricker Dawson

Dedication

As students we are separate from the world while at the same time deeply involved in it. We are trying to learn how to cope with the world as it exists today, and perhaps at the same time learning how to make it a better place. We are noisy and we are quiet, happy and sad; we are interested and we are apathetic, realists and idealists. We desire to lead meaningful lives; there is so much to learn which is not found in books. We want to help others, and we want others to help us. We want to touch the world, and we want to be touched.

We, the Senior Class of 1988, find it befitting to dedicate this edition of the Regina Maris to Mr. John Rok, a man who has disciplined us, taught us, helped us, and cared about each one of us as individuals. Thank you for touching us and allowing us to touch others.

ADMINISTRATION & FACULTY

The moment is ours, given significance by the men and women who have regulated our unsteady count into a rhythmic beat. The words pervade our thoughts and attain greater value in their implications. They have exerted the effort to instill in us the spirit of knowledge with their patience, concern, and guiding hands. They have shown us that pursuit of love and wisdom quickens man's mind to grasp a systematic ordering of his knowledge and of the activity to place a given object in its proper perspective.

The function of the university is not simply to teach bread-winning, or to furnish teachers for the public schools or to be a centre of polite society; it is above all to be the organ of that fine adjustment between real life and the growing knowledge of life, and adjustment which forms the secret of civilization.

ACTIVITIES

Experiences we share at Salve are the essence of a very special lifetime. Campus life is indeed a unique creation. Enhanced by the regal air of Ochre Court, students revel in the mirth of a formal dance, and sigh at the thought of the lines for class registration. This lifetime is made special not only because of the activities in which we participate, but also because of the others who participate.

Orientation

Orientation Staff: (n) those students who work for the College during the summer months, assisting with the Orientation program for incoming students. Working hard, and late into the night, there was little time for fun for these students.

Moving In

Every September an annual event takes place in Newport: the return of the Salve student. Moving in is a traumatic experience for all — students attempting to fit their whole lives in a room which will be called "home" for the next nine months; parents trying to fit everything their college-bound child packed into the family car; Resident Assistants matching names, rooms, and I.D. cards, and praying that everything works out the way it is supposed to; and security — realizing that summer is over and the days of ticketing illegally (supposedly) parked cars and opening dorm rooms have returned.

... However, moving in represents for Freshmen the beginning of their college experience, and for the Seniors it marks the beginning of the end of their final days of college.

KENYA

In the second year of this program, fifteen students were selected to study in Kenya, East Africa, for eight weeks. Led by Fathers John Meade and Michael Malone, students continued their academic studies in Kenya, participating in African safaris, and visiting archaeological sites to encounter various indigenous manners.

The program elicited the motivation of each individual involved to achieve one's best self and to strive to seek truth in a new environment which will broaden understanding of the world.

East Bay Special Olympics

Hosting the Special Olympics has become an event which embraces the Salve tradition. Those who take part each year in the planning and running of the Games, and those who are on hand to cheer the athletes know that it is one of the best ways in which we are able to become our best selves.

Four years ago we started out as a Small Voice. In that time we have dreamed and seen some of those dreams come true. Now, we have left Salve, Flying Free!

Good morning yesterday, you woke up and time has slipped away, And suddenly it's hard to find the memories you left behind, remember. Do you remember . . . the laughter and the tear, the shadows of misty yester-years? The good times and the bad you've seen and all the others in between, remember. Do you remember the times of your life?

Reach back for the joy and the sorrow, put them away in your mind, for mem'ries are time that you borrow to spend when you get to tomorrow. Here comes the setting sun. The seasons are passing one by one so gather moments while you may. Collect the dreams you dream today, remember . . . Will you remember the times of your life?

So sad, so strange, the days that are no more.
Tennyson

 Dryden

Desiderata

Go placidly amid the noise and haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible without surrender be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story. Avoid loud and aggressive persons, they are vexations to the spirit. If you compare yourself with others, you may become vain and bitter; for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself. Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans. Keep interested in your own career, however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time. Exercise caution in your business affairs; for the world is full of trickery. But let this not blind you to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals; and everywhere life is full of heroism. Be yourself. Especially, do not feign affection. Neither be cynical about love; for in the face of all aridity and disenchantment it is perennial as the grass. Take kindly the counsel of the years, gracefully surrendering the things of youth. Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness. Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. You are a child of the universe, no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should. Therefore be at peace with God, whatever you conceive Him to be, and whatever your labors and aspirations, in the noisy confusion of life keep peace with your soul. With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world. Be careful. Strive to be happy.

Since the time we enrolled, we became part of a unique group of individuals — the Class of 1988. Each of us is so different, yet alike in one respect: we attended Salve Regina College. Each of our college years has found fulfillment of our dreams, and the making of memories. Time has flown by with breathtaking speed. New worlds have been opened to us; we have made new friends; we cherish the old. We find that now, after four years of higher education, inside as well as outside of the classroom, we are driven by different, loftier dreams than we were as Freshmen. We have grown, and developed through the years . . .

Things to remember . . .

Dear

I am pleased to tell you that the Admissions Committee of Salve Regina-The Newport College has approved your application and you are accepted into the College. Full status as a degree candidate in your major field will be granted to you by the chairperson of your major department upon satisfactory completion of the prerequisites set up by the department. Please consult your catalogue for information if you have already chosen a major field.

Dear Ne

May, 1984

The College conducts a series of required two-day workshops for the orientation of new students and their parents/guardians. The primary mission of the orientation program is to assist students in the process of adjustment to the educational life inherent in the College Community. That is, it is the initial stage of a total educational process, through which the College attempts to lead students toward the development of their best selves. Designed with the special needs of new students and parents/guardians in mind, the orientation sessions in Newport are planned to be both informative and enjoyable, with ample opportunity for a personalized educational experience.

New students and parents/guardians will meet with the student's faculty advisor, will complete procedures for placement testing and fall semester registration, and will have the opportunity to gain information concerning College resources and services while understanding clearly the mission and goals of the College. The theme of the program will be "How to Succeed in College".

Barbara A. Sylvia
Assistant Vice President

We are anxiously awaiting your arrival back to the College for the 1984-85 academic year. The summer has been an extremely busy one preparing for the 1984-85 academic year. The most exciting news to report is that the College and the Newport YMCA have made arrangements to make the YMCA facilities available to all Salve Regina students during the year. The schedule will be Monday through Saturday from 8:00 pm to 11:00 pm and Sunday from 5:00 pm to 9:00 pm. The available facilities include the locker rooms, weightlifting areas, the gym, the pool, the aerobics room, and handball and racquetball courts. In addition to securing the facilities, the College will provide shuttle transportation from the campus to the "Y". This is an excellent opportunity for you to keep active and healthy. I am also happy to report that the soccer/baseball/softball field at Wetmore will be ready for varsity competition in the spring.

August 28, 1984

Carey Mansion has a new look! A great deal of work (and paint) has brightened up the building and we have expanded its use. The main hall area and the Elk's Head Room have been re-named Cecelia Hall and will serve as the new location for our music department.

DATE: Classes will begin on Wednesday, September 5, 1984. Make sure you get off to a strong start with your course work. It will make your semester more enjoyable and will insure your success. Residences will open on Tuesday, September 4, 1984 after 12:00 noon. Students may go directly to their assigned residences. Resident Assistants will have your keys and assist you in the move-in process. For those resident students residing in the House/Apartment Program, you should report to the Residence Office in Miley Hall - lower level to pick up your keys. Dinner from 4:00 pm to 6:00 pm will be the first meal served in the cafeteria.

On Wednesday, September 19, 1984, the College will celebrate the 50th Anniversary of the College Charter at a Convocation Ceremony. There will be no classes held on this day because the entire college community will be participating in the events of the day. I am sure it will be a highlight of our year.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE TO NEW STUDENTS

Dear Newcomers to Salve,

Through our annual New Student Register, I take great delight in presenting you to our College community. I trust you will all come to know one another in friendship—as well as gain genial recognition by our faculty, staff, and returning students.

To be thus identified as a registered student at Salve means more than formal college status. It implies that you have taken a strong commitment toward a lifetime goal of substantial achievement. You have entered a gateway that will lead to a lasting experience of our moral and academic values—of individual integrity and intellectual excellence.

Each of you will face the challenges of personal growth through self effort. All genuine education hinges on your determination—your contribution of drive, enthusiasm, and staying power. College is a lengthy marathon, but all who finish the course are true winners.

Realize that you are not alone in this ambitious venture. Here we cherish the values of a caring Christian community. We study and learn together. We pray, we play, we share, we encourage and support one another in Christian solidarity. Open and heartfelt acceptance extends right up to the President's Office. Accept us in return and make these Salve years the best years of your lives.

Sister Lucille McKillop
President

3. I accept and shall cooperate fully with the seniority system for room assignments established by the College (i.e., seniors first, then juniors, sophomores, and freshmen, in that order.)
4. I agree to participate fully in the dining service program

Expectations of Resident Students

Considerate, controlled, mature adult behavior is expected at all times. Resident students are expected to keep their living quarters clean and comfortable. In their relationships with others, they are expected to work toward becoming their own best selves and toward helping others to become their own best selves. Students are expected to be and do what they ought to be and do. We cannot separate who we are and what we do. We, in some strange and fascinating way, become what we do. We must take time to weigh carefully what we hope to become so that we will know what we are to do.

Students seeking residence should read carefully the contract they sign. That contract stipulates the terms under which they are permitted to live in College residences. It also outlines areas of direct responsibility for the College and for the students. (It is reprinted here as Appendix I for the students' benefit.)

Furniture in Residences

Furniture may not be moved or removed in any College building. Students may rearrange the furniture only in the room assigned to them.

COLLEGE RESIDENCE PROGRAM

Guest Regulations

The guest of a student is subject to the same rules and regulations as the host/hostess. It is the responsibility of the host/hostess to inform the guest of the policies governing residence life and conduct. At all times, the host/hostess is responsible for the actions of the guest.

1. All guests must legibly sign their full name when they come in and when they leave.
2. The following regulations apply to all guests in every residence.

For Both: Residents and Their Guests:

1. In those residences where a desk worker is assigned, both parties will leave an I.D. on deposit for the duration of the visit.
2. Visiting hours for guests of the opposite sex or from outside the College are:
12:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m. Sunday through Thursday
12:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. Friday through Saturday

Student Room Contract

for the entire period of residency.

5. I agree to observe all regulations governing the admittance and presence of guests in the residence halls.
6. I claim no right of occupancy or admittance to the assigned residence or room, except when the residence halls are officially open as posted by the Director of Residence. I understand that the College assumes no responsibility for personal belongings at any time.
7. I shall not be, nor permit another to be, an agent in the advertising or sale of any products without the explicit permission of the Director of Residence.
8. I agree to cooperate in observing the quiet hours designed for study and to respect the right of others to an atmosphere conducive to study and academic growth.
9. I agree to act as a responsible citizen in the use and care of my room and the common facilities.

Quiet Hours

In order to provide a framework within the residences in which pursuit of educational goals is given top priority, the College has established quiet hours for all residences. These hours are from 9:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. This allows students the freedom to study and/or rest if they wish.

The right of an individual to study or rest in preparation for classes should never be infringed upon. It is always important that activities within residences do not distract from the main purpose of being there.

Safety Officer

The College Safety Officer is an individual designated by the President to periodically inspect and evaluate the physical plant with respect to its bearing upon the physical safety of College personnel. It is the task of the Safety Officer to bring to the attention of the President situations which appear to be potentially dangerous to human health and safety, including, but not restricted to, any apparent violations of the fire and safety codes of the City, State, and College itself. At the present time, the College Safety Officer is also Director of Security.

Salve President Breaks Ground

Sister Lucille McKillop, complete with her Salve Regina hardhat, is at the controls as she breaks ground for a new student residence, due for occupancy in the fall of 1986. (Philippe Berthiaume photo)

Sister Lucille McKillop, president of Salve Regina College, was cheered as she sent a backhoe plunging into the campus soil at the recent groundbreaking ceremony for a new student residence. The ceremony was held September 16 at the building site on the corner of Ochre Point and Victoria Avenues in Newport.

At a time when some institutions are struggling to keep up enrollment, Salve Regina is reflecting its own stability and progress through new construction. The student residence will house 146 students. The cost of the project is approximately $3.5 million.

According to Salve's vice president for institutional advancement Sister M. Therese Antone, "We have a strong sense of community at this college. Much of a student's time at Salve not only involves academic pursuits but individual growth as well. I am certain that a facility such as this will help students to grow through their personal interactions. Also, they will enjoy proximity to other campus buildings where many cultural events and activities are held."

The architectural design of the building is noteworthy in that it attempts to preserve the august beauty of Newport's Ochre Point section. The area, dotted with many buildings and homes, is designated by the National Register of Historic Places as the Ochre Point — Cliffs Historic District.

"The College has been highly conscientious in its endeavor to create a structure which will be visually appealing and in keeping with the surrounding environment," Sister Therese said.

Designed by Robinson Green Beretta, a Providence architectural firm, the residence will be comprised of two three-story wings connected by a one-story structure. The three-story height allows for compatibility with neighboring Moore Hall and other area houses. The exterior of the building will consist of brick, clapboard and wooden shingles to give a residential appearance rather than an institutional one. The residence hall will rest among abundant, stately beech trees and rhododendron. The shrubs are being left in place to maintain the site's attractiveness.

Gilbane Building Company will serve as the construction manager. Plans call for completion of the student residence by the fall of 1986.

THANK YOU

Gloria is gone and our college stands for all to see as a shining example of what great people can do in the face of impending disaster. The planning and execution of our disaster plans went flawlessly. The efforts of all were coordinated: departments secured their areas from possible storm damage; the Maintenance staff boarded and taped; the Grounds staff cleared the campus of potential flying objects; the Security staff checked and secured the buildings; the Student Service staff cleared the dorms; the Housekeeping staff prepared the buildings; the Purchasing and Distribution staff secured emergency supplies and, of course, our Food Service staff prepared for emergency food support. It was like a beautiful ballet unfolding as each staff section became a part of the whole, and the whole's performance became greater than its individual parts.

Having thought I had seen it all on Thursday and Friday, I found myself awestruck by your superhuman efforts to reopen and return the college to normal on Sunday despite almost impossible obstacles. In addition, you simultaneously handled an Open House for nearly 1200 people which went perfectly. All 700 students returned to their dorms without incident and classes were run in spite of buildings being without electricity.

You, the life and blood of Salve Regina, did it and I am so very grateful. Even though the residue of the storm will soon disappear from view, your accomplishments will remain forever in my mind and my love for each and every one of you in my heart. God bless you.

Hurricane Gloria

The topic of conversation at Salve Regina College on Thursday, September 26 was of the approaching Hurricane Gloria. The College decided that "an ounce of prevention..." was the prudent rule to follow and proceeded to cancel classes and send students home by noon on that day. Meanwhile, preparations were well underway for what was predicted to be one of the worst hurricanes on record. Salve personnel were busy securing offices, taping windows, boarding up Ochre Court's precious stained glass windows and picking up loose objects around the grounds — all the while wondering just how hard would she hit?

Fortunately for all, Hurricane Gloria made her presence known but not quite with the impact so many had feared. Still, she left behind obvious signs of her power in the form of fallen trees, loss of electricity and destroyed foliage from salty winds.

As the rest of the state struggled to pick up the pieces, Salve Regina College — with the help of students, faculty and staff — had been prepared. By Monday morning clean up was going smoothly, and it was business as usual on campus.

A tangle of wires and transformers from a toppled pole outside Watts Sherman are some of the results from the high winds of Gloria.

SEPTEMBER 1986 ADDING A NEW DIMENSION TO CAMPUS LIFE.

Campus Center and Student Residence Open

On September 15, Salve Regina College officially unveiled the new Wakehurst Campus Center. Wakehurst, located on Ochre Point Avenue, has been used in recent years by the College as a student residence.

During the summer months a shifting of space occurred, designed to centralize student recreational facilities as well as student service offices.

Under the supervision of Dean of Students John Rok and Ron Atkins, director of the Wakehurst Campus Center and College Activities, the building now contains a snack bar, an international house, an exercise room, study areas and recreation rooms with assorted games and a large screen television. A variety of conference facilities and meeting rooms are also available for campus organizations and groups.

Also housed at Wakehurst are a number of Salve's student service offices including the dean of students, residence, career planning and placement, college activities and housing.

In combination with a new student residence contiguous to Salve's campus, the Wakehurst Campus Center serves as a focal point for student activities at the College.

The new student residence which was under construction for the past year was opened at the start of the academic year to 146 students.

The $4 million residence hall was designed by Robinson Green Beretta, a Providence architectural firm. The construction manager was the Gilbane Building Company.

The residence hall rests on Ochre Point Avenue between Shepard and Victoria Avenues.

With completion of the attractive residence and refurbishing of Wakehurst, Salve students have two additional places to enjoy a rich campus life.

Report from Newport

Newsletter of Salve Regina — The Newport College

U.S. News and World Report Ranks Salve in Top Ten

Salve Regina — The Newport College is among the top ten smaller comprehensive institutions in the Eastern United States according to survey results which appear in the November 25 issue of U.S. News and World Report.

The widely-read magazine's survey polled the presidents of 1,318 four-year colleges and universities nationally. Presidents were asked to choose the top five undergraduate colleges or universities from a list naming those institutions with academic offerings and size similar to his or her institution. Strength of curriculum, quality of teaching, relationship between faculty and students and the atmosphere for learning were among the factors considered by the presidents in making their top selections. The nation's higher educational institutions were divided into nine categories based on a soon-to-be published classification system devised by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. Objective data used by the Carnegie Foundation to support the categorization include the range and types of degrees awarded.

Salve Regina was considered in the category for smaller comprehensive institutions. This category focused on schools with a broad-based curriculum which award no more than half their bachelor's degrees in the liberal arts. Salve Regina ranked eighth among 74 similar schools in the east. Specifically cited in the survey is the high ranking of Salve Regina's health related aca-demical programs. Included in the College's health curriculum is the Nursing Department which this year celebrates its 25th anniversary of accreditation. The Salve nursing program was the first at a Rhode Island college or university to become fully accredited. Also included in Salve's health-related curriculum is a medical technology major as well as programs in the basic sciences.

The 38-year-old Newport college currently offers forty areas of major study for undergraduates. Of the nearly 60 percent of those presidents responding to U.S. News and World Report's poll, most expressed the opinion that a broad-based approach toward academic offerings is essential to quality education.

Megley Theatre Dedicated

The Megley Theatre was officially dedicated recently at Salve Regina. Located in Mercy Hall on the Salve campus, the theatre underwent extensive restoration and refurbishing during the summer and fall. A new stage was constructed. Elevated seating was installed to improve audience comfort and sightlines. The lighting was upgraded while new carpeting and drapes were put in. The theatre now seats 82.

Sister Sheila Megley, Provost at Salve Regina and a supporter of the arts, received the honor of the theatre being named for her at a reception following the college theatre company's first production of the year.

Two Peter Shaffer plays were presented to sellout crowds. "The White Liars" starred James DiZazzo, Christopher Moriarty and Elaine Sacco. The production was directed by Bernard G. Masterson, Salve theatre department chairman.

The other Shaffer play, "Black Comedy", directed by Salve theatre instructor Gary Diomandes, featured Thomas Clinton Haynes, Mark Letourneau, Rick Koster and Magda Skomal. The supporting cast included Susie Fusari, Ken Chille, Megan McLoughlin and Karl Ginalski.

"THROWING MUSES" NAMED BEST CASSETTE OF 1985

Kristin Hersh, daughter of philosophy professor Dr. James Hersh and a junior at Salve, has written a song that her band, "Throwing Muses," has recorded. The song, "Sinkhole," has been named the number one song in America on college radio stations

IRENE RYAN CANDIDATES

Based on their performances in White Liars and Black Comedy, three theatre majors were selected to compete for the Irene Ryan Scholarship at the University of New Hampshire on January 22, 1986. The trio are James DiZazzo, Thomas Haynes and Elaine Sacco. Each candidate will select a scene partner who will also travel to UNH. The national competition is part of the American College Theatre Festival, supported by the U.S. Department of Education.

Student Standouts

Three members of Salve Regina College's theatre company have been selected to further compete in the American College Theatre Festival (ACTF). The trio includes sophomores Elaine Sacco and James DiZazzo and junior Thomas Haynes.

The judging for the right to advance in the competition took place during the recent production of two Peter Shaffer plays, "The White Liars" and "Black Comedy." On stage at the Megley Theatre, Haynes played Beardsley Miller in the latter play while DiZazzo and Sacco were featured as Frank and Sophie in "The White Liars."

The aim of the American College Theatre Festival, produced by the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts and partially funded by the U.S. Department of Education, is to promote quality in college level theatre production. Once a college enters a play into competition, a regional ACTF representative adjudicates the performances. Outstanding students are selected who then further compete in ACTF programs involving awards, scholarships and special grants for actors, playwrights, designers and critics at regional and national levels. The most prestigious prize is the Irene Ryan Scholarship which is awarded to the most promising theatre student in the nation. Nationwide last year over 12,000 students from 550 productions participated in the festival.

The Salve selectees will have participated prior to this edition of Report from Newport at the University of New Hampshire. There, they will have performed in January in regional competition with approximately fifty other actors and actresses. Winners from eighteen regions will win awards along with the right to compete at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. This final competition decides the winner of the Irene Ryan Scholarship.

Valedictory Speech

In just a few short weeks, many of us here will sever our formal undergraduate ties with Salve Regina. Some of us will proceed to graduate schools. Most of us will enter the work force as full-time employees for the first time in our lives. No matter which course we pursue, we will take many fond memories with us. Most important, however, we will take with us the benefits derived from Salve's educational process. Galileo once said, "You cannot teach a man anything; you can only help him find it within himself." Here, we have been given much more than the necessary tools to prepare us for our professional goals. We have been encouraged to sharpen our intellects, to develop a sense of civic and moral values, and to mature in our ability to make correct judgements. We have been encouraged to work closely with others, and to seek counsel when we have been confronted with problems.

We leave Salve with mixed emotions. We are saddened and apprehensive, but at the same time, we are eager to meet the challenges of the future. The challenges and the uncertainties that we will encounter will be multifaceted. They may spring from rapidly expanding technology, changing political or moral values, or from within our own families. The portent of swift societal alteration stemming from these factors is already evident. Robotics have enabled some industrial facilities to become so automated that only a handful of workers are necessary to perform the operations of hundreds. Office settings are undergoing the transition from traditional desks to work-stations equipped with personal computers, or terminals connected to a computer network. In the past, the majority of women left the work force within a few years of initial employment to devote their lives solely to family responsibilities. Today, many women continue employment, even after the advent of children, because of the necessity to supplement family income, or because they feel compelled to continue their own professional development. As further changes develop in the future, we must never become guilty of despair. Instead, we must recognize our own abilities and meet ensuing challenges with perseverance, innovation, and prudence. As Seneca once said, "There is nothing which persevering effort and increasing diligent care cannot overcome."

The power of prudent, persevering effort can be garnered from the dramatic rescue last October of tiny Jessica McClure who was trapped 22-feet below the ground in an abandoned oil well for 58 1/2 hours. The members of her rescue team did not rush blindly into action. Instead, they carefully weighed the alternative lifesaving methods at their disposal.

They recognized that their ultimate goal was not only to extricate Jessica, but also to prevent further injury. They concluded that the best method to achieve their goal was to dig a deeper parallel shaft, and then to tunnel upward.

Ten hours after the rescue operation commenced, the team had managed to burrow to within two-feet of Jessica's entrapment. Then tragedy struck. The diggers encountered tough limestone rock that snapped their drill bits like pencil points. However, they refused to abandon hope; they knew that they had to keep on trying. Relay teams were formed, and these teams resumed drilling with larger, heavier drills. The teams labored within the cramped tunnel for thirty more hours before they were able to puncture a two-inch opening into Jessica's chasm. While the rescuers felt elation at this progress, they also suffered the pangs of frustration. They knew that hot air forced into Jessica's shaft was keeping her warm, but they also knew that she was growing weak from lack of food and water.

They pondered accepting the volunteer service proffered by a local man who had been born without collar bones. Because of his deformity, this man felt that he would be able to squeeze into Jessica's tunnel and subsequently rescue her. However, they decided that the original plan still presented the most favorable prospect for rescue, and so they resumed drilling. As the entrance expanded, a new challenge erupted. They discovered that the well shaft continued beneath the area in which Jessica was trapped. A balloon was forced under to ensure that she did not slip further. Finally after 58 hours of intense effort, the ingress was large enough to allow rescue.

As we prepare to confront our own challenges as employees, as citizens, as spouses, and as parents, we realize that the vigorous effort exhibited by Jessica's rescue team can only be sustained for a relatively short period of time. However, their success resulted from much more than supreme exertion. This was a group undertaking, alternative actions were considered, and the plan of attack was devised carefully with Jessica's safety remaining foremost at all times.

When change alters our lives, we should delve within ourselves for the inner knowledge that will assist us as we carefully consider alternative methods to achieve our goals. We should recall the advantages of cohesive effort that we have learned here at Salve, and also seek the assistance and the advice of others who may possess greater experience, or who may be less emotional in their perception. We, in turn, should be willing to extend our assistance to others. If we should encounter unexpected barriers, we must never allow ourselves to succumb to despair. Instead, we must renew our faith and our determination. When a solution appears to be fruitless, we must seek a new direction, and try and try again. We must never fail to try for fear of failing, and if we should expend a concerted effort based on sound judgement, and still fail, we must never wallow in self-pity. Instead, we should recall the words of Sophocles when he said, "One must learn by doing the thing; for though you think that you know it you have no certainty, until you try."

IF

If you can dream — and not make dreams your master;
If you can think — and not make thought your aim;
If you can meet with triumph and disaster
And treat those two imposters just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to broken,
And stoop to build'em up with worn out tools;

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings — nor lose the common touch;
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you;
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run —
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And — which is more — you'll be a Man, my son!

Salve piles up track records

NORTH DARTMOUTH, Mass. — The Salve Regina College track team set five team records Saturday at the Southeastern Massachusetts University Invitational.
The record setters were javelin throwers Tammy Fortin and Tom lito, hammer throwers Jerri McMichael and Bob Martin and plechase runner Krir Pedesich.

Ardito, the Connecticut state high champion last year, was 171-6.

Always remember
To forget
the things
that made you sad,
but never forget
To remember
the things
that made you glad.
— Elbert Hubbard

If happiness is activity in accordance that it should be in accordance with the highest excellence.

— Aristotle

The best way to secure future happiness is to be as happy as is rightfully possible to-day.

— Charles W. Eliot

We do not remember days,
we remember moments.

— Cesare Pavese

All our yesterdays are summarized in our now, and all the tomorrows are ours to shape.

The Mercy Nursing Pin

Red bars upon a field of white
White upon a seal of gold
Courage the red — compassion the white
With a cross — the sign of commitment
And the gold — a reminder of the Promise of eternal life
Behold the Mercy Shield!

Pathway of a Nurse

To soothe a pain, to really care
 But most of all to listen and share!
 This is the compassion to which Nursing is bound —
 And devotion is the pathway upon which Nursing is found!
 The feel of a service superbly done --
 A human cause matched by none!
 Knowing the special person you are —
 And that on life's pathway a nurse is a star.

And try to be that perfectly.

— St. Francis De Sales

Look to this day
 For it is Life, the very Life of Life
 In its brief course lies all the Verities and Realities of your Existence:
 The Bliss of Growth,
 The Growth of Action,
 The Splendor of Beauty.
 For Yesterday is but a Dream,
 And Tomorrow is only a Vision;
 But Today well-lived makes every
 Yesterday a Dream of Happiness,
 And every Tomorrow a Visitation of Hope.
 Look well therefore to this Day!

If one advances confidently in the direction of his dreams, and endeavors to live the life which he has imagined, he will meet with a success unexpected in common hours. . . . If you have built castles in the air, your work need not be lost; that is where they should be. Now put foundations under them.

— Thoreau

This is the place. Stand still . . .
Let me review the scene,
And summer from the shadowy Past
The forms that once have been.
— Longfellow

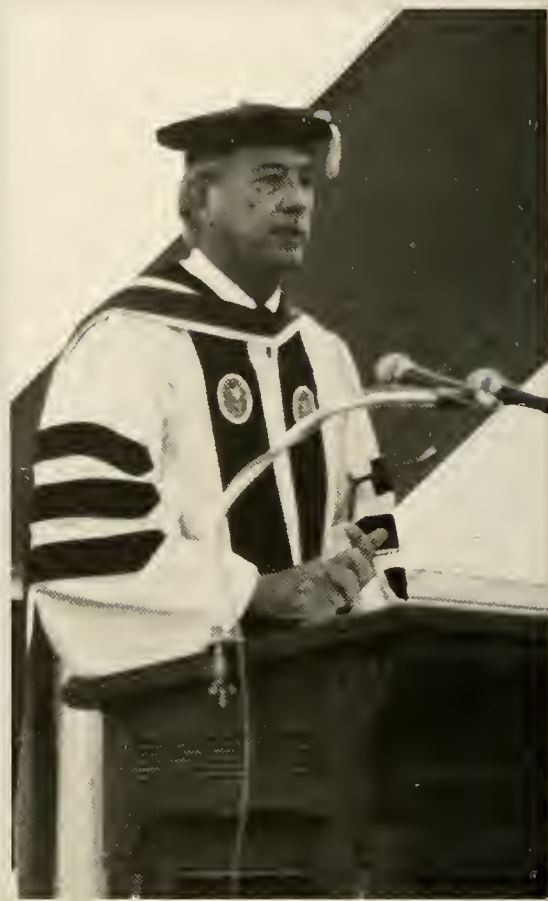

We feel now the future in the instant.
— Shakespeare

There is a rich variety of enthusiasm and talent among us, young people from so many nations and backgrounds. We have been given many gifts to offer the world. In our time at Salve we grew in wisdom, age and grace, grace following upon grace. So many have touched our lives and gone away silently before us. We ask for them a fullness of life. For us, we ask for unwavering faith, constant hope, and love that endures to the end.

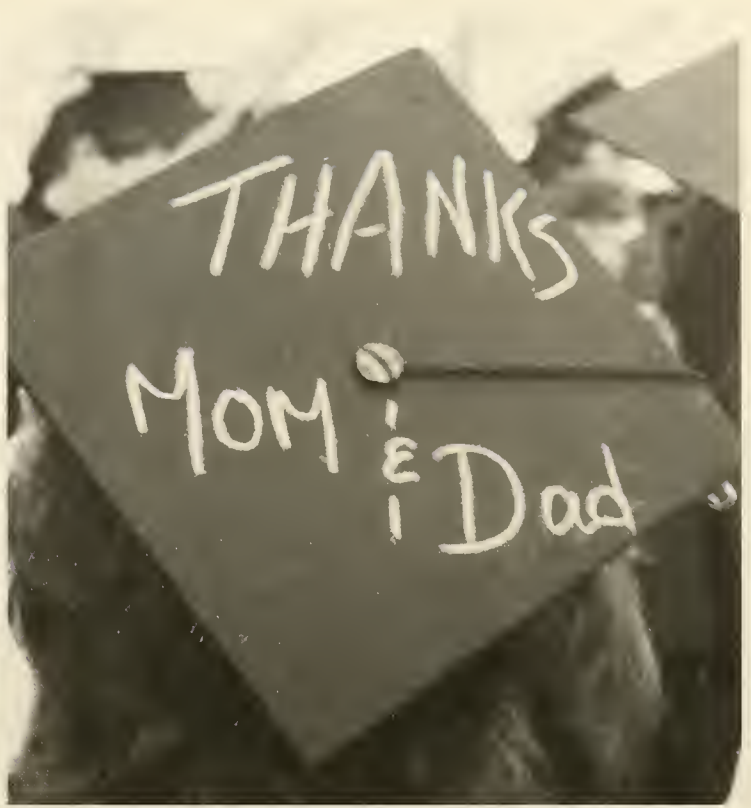

Obviously the right to be happy demands that people should be so far as is humanly possible and learn what they wish to know, and exercise the talents and faculties which bring them the most pleasure.

— Dora Russell

We are time's subjects and time bids be gone.
— Shakespeare

Self-knowledge is best learned, not by contemplation, but action. Strive to do your duty, and you will soon discover of what stuff you are made.

— Goethe

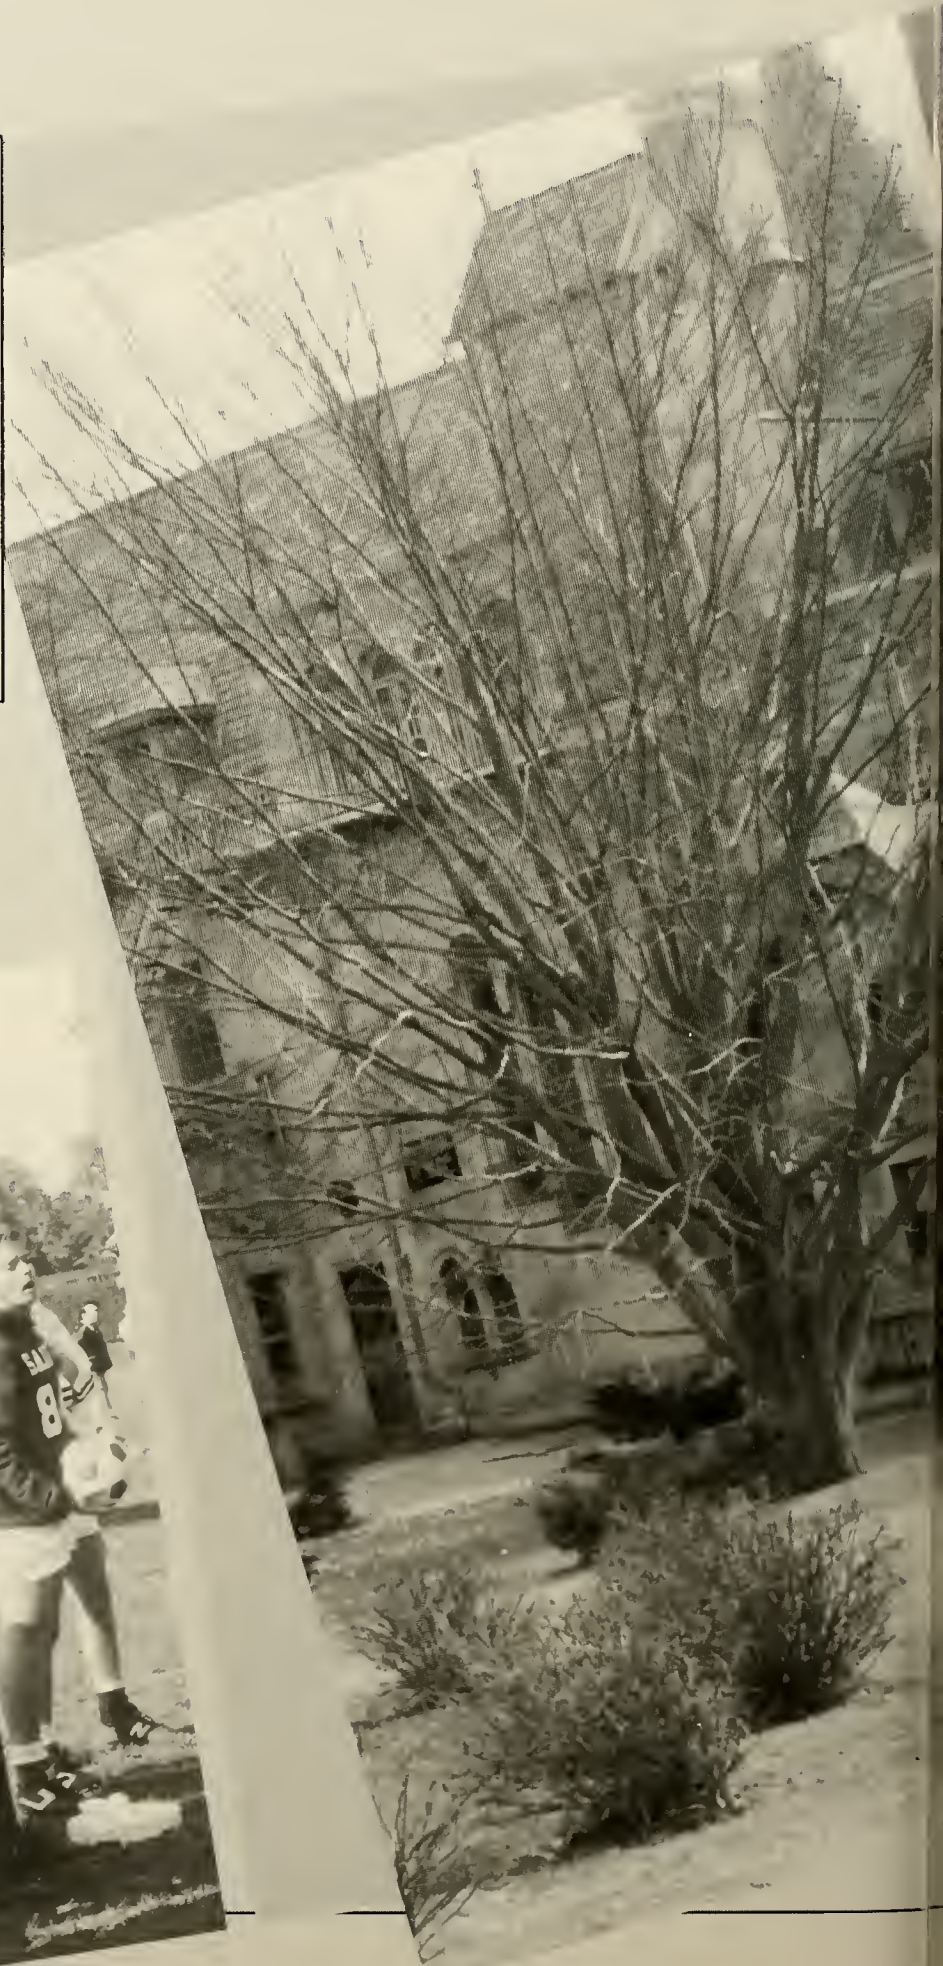

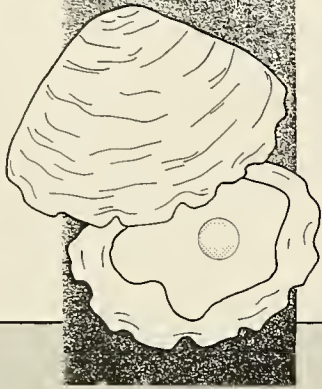

Always give your best, never get discouraged, never be petty; always remember, others may hate you. Those who hate you don't win unless you hate them. And then you destroy yourself.
— Richard Nixon

To get an education
To be the best that she could be
You college days are over, dear
Your life has now begun
You know it won't be easy
Not all days filled with fun
Don't be afraid to take a chance or eer along the way
It's all a part of growing up
You'll face it everyday

Walter, thou hast no taste, no color, no odor;
canst not be defined, art relished while ever mysterious. Not necessary to life, but rather life itself, thou fillest us with a gratification that exceeds the delight of the senses.

— Saint-Exupery

Time brings all things to pass.
— Aeschylus

Time is a great conference planning our end, and youth is only the past putting a leg forward.

— Djuna Barnes

Seniors, consummate in achievement and ability, once binding in the torrent of activity, now tall in the sunshine of fulfillment . . . Behind lies a record of accomplishment and awards won. Ahead, a time of responsibility. These shared hours have been the essence of a very special lifetime, but that phase has ended and each must stand alone. Now in my own image I must face the future ready to act.
